

First F27 Completely rigged with Colligo Dux Synthetic standing rigging: Diamonds/shrouds/Forestay.

This Corsair 27 is the first F27 boat completely rigged with Colligo Dux Synthetic standing rigging. The Diamonds, Lower shrouds, Intermediate shrouds, Cap shrouds, and forestay are all Colligo Dux Rigging. The Lower, Intermediates and Diamonds are all rigged with turnbuckles (bottle screws). The caps and forestay use lashings for tensioning. Colligo Dux rigging was mated to the original turnbuckles with new upper toggles that fit the line terminators.

The owner is very happy, particularly with ease of rigging and de-rigging his boat with synthetic shrouds instead of cumbersome wire rigging. Not to mention saving about 25 lbs.

On left: Starboard Lower and Intermediate Turnbuckle Connections and Colligo Dux Forestay with Softie, Soft Hanks.

On right: The spreader ends needed to be opened slightly to accommodate the large diameter line, but easily completed.

Contour 34 trimaran with Colligo Dux Standing Rigging.

This Contour 34 uses Colligo Dux Rigging for the shrouds, runners, and luff line in the Screecher sail. This rigging shows extensive use of stopper knots and the flexibility they allow. Softies, soft shackles were also used on some of the connections.

On the right is a closeup of a shroud with our open line terminator that allows multiple lashings to it.

On the right shows runner connection to the purchase system, again using stopper knots.

Customer Testimonial:

“I received the rigging today. When I picked the box up at the post office I thought you might have forgotten to put anything in it. When I got it back to the car I opened it up and couldn't believe my eyes. Just one of my s.s. shrouds weighs more than all of the CM rigging. This is going to be fun.” Michael Nikisher, Hunter 33.
